

The heatmap displays the distribution of 10 unlabeled categories across the days of the week. The categories are represented by different colors: dark gray, light blue, cyan, magenta, and purple. The distribution shows various patterns of activity across the week, with some categories being more prevalent on specific days.

